IMPANEL JURY IN TRIALS OF 11

Jeff Smith Granted Separate Trial At Ardmore

JURY IMPANELED

'Masked Band' Murder Case Gets Under Way

ARDMORE, Okla., Jan. 29.—Jeff Smith, one of the eleven defendants in the masked band murder trial, asked for severance which was granted by Judge W. F. Freeman when the case was called here today.

J. W. Burns, Smith's attorney, later filed a motion for twenty-four hours continuance in which to plead. Burns assigned as reason for granting the continuance that O. A. Cargill of Oklahoma City, leading counsel for the defense, was unable to be present on account of the illness of his child. Burns also argued a material witness was absent due to sickness.

Continuance Denied

Records disclosed that this witness had not been summoned and that no doctors certificate had been produced so the continuance motion was overruled and the prosecution elected to try Smith first.

Attorney Burns then asked permission to withdraw the severance motion and have the defendant tried jointly with the others but the court refused to grant the request.

Smith's trial started and the jury was impaneled. All other defendants announced they were ready for trial.

Severance was also granted "Carroll" Smith on petition of his attorney.

Those on trial are Dr. E. C. Harlow, optometrist; W. L. T. Hildon, oil lease broker; J. A. Gilman, livestock breeder; Dan Ridpath, contractor; R. C. Whitechurch, oil supply man; J. H. Pitts, automobile dealer; Tom Hales, oil agent, and Frank Caldwell, insurance man.

The three men of whom these eleven are charged with murdering, were found dead in a field near the home of Joe Carroll following an alleged raid by a masked band on the Carroll home, located near Wilson.

The alleged masked band raids and murders occurred on the night of December 15, 1921.

Those killed were Joe Carroll and John Smith, Wilson, and C. G. Sims, Ardmore policeman.

Proceeding in the Carroll case, Carroll had received numerous letters warning him to leave the neighborhood, according to members of his family. These letters accused him of selling liquor in the oil fields, they said.

The attack on the Carroll home followed complaints lodged with authorities in Oklahoma City that lawlessness prevailed in Carter county and that law officers were winking at law violations.

The former court set aside $187,500 for this purpose. The commission and advisory committee will meet Thursday morning to go over these estimates together.

Sabine Inspection

Commissioner Vanhook and County Judge Johnson will go over today in Precinct No. 3 (Sabine and Sabine Pass) next Friday to see what is required in that district. Citizens will meet with them on that occasion.

The resolution offered by Commissioner McDonald, which will be voted on Monday, is as follows:

"That it is the sense of the court that the two contracts recently entered into between Jefferson county and district No. 1 and Smith Brothers, dated Dec. 8, 1922, constitutes a valid and substantial contract, and that it is the sense of the board that the said contracts were legally and regularly made and entered into, and that the bid of Smith Brothers, which forms the basis of said contract, was the lowest and best bid for the work contemplated; and that it is the sense of the court that on account of the urgent need of the county and said district for the proposed highways, it would serve the best interests of the tax payers concerned and the public generally to proceed with the work covered by the terms of said contracts, and each of them, to be begun at as early a date as possible; and to that end."

Ask Early Start

"That it is resolved by the court that the matter of securing the full and final authorization of the state highway commission to begin work, be undertaken and acted by this court and that Smith Brothers, the contractors, be requested to take all such steps as may be needed, and necessary in co-operating with the court to the end that said authority be secured as soon as possible and said work be actually begun at the earliest possible time."

Congress Members Get Tons Of Mail Asking U. S. Action In Crisis

WASHINGTON, Jan. 29.—Tons of mail demanding American action to avert another European war and also urging that this country keep "hands off" is pouring in upon members of congress today.

Senators, facing the prospect of a week of discussion and possible action on the European situation found their desks piled high with letters. This obvious interest of the voters gave a tremendous stimulus to congress. The letters show the country is widely divided on the policy which should be followed. Senators advocating a vigorous course such as calling an economic conference have received a preponderance of mail favoring such action. Those who oppose any action by this government like what they hear most from voters who hold similar views.

Because of this it is evident to congress that public opinion is still in the formative state on the situation.

PICTURES RELIEF WORK IN SERBIA

Visitor Here Addresses Audience At St. George's

The historical development of the countries of Europe since the World War, their national customs, social life, the various industries, social life and educational life, and the customs of the people were among the interesting points touched upon by Dr. Alice Barlow Brown in her lecture at St. George's Episcopal church last night.

Dr. Brown did medical construction work in France during the war and since the armistice was signed she has been doing reconstruction work in Serbia. She is now in the United States lecturing in behalf of her work in Serbia. While in Port Arthur she is the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. L. Boyd of 2201 Fourth street.

After her lecture tour in the United States Dr. Brown expects to go to Wuhan, China, where she will take charge of the hospital work under the auspices of the Episcopal board.

In her lecture last night, Dr. Brown declared that the Serbian people as a whole were an unusually appreciative people, differing in that respect from the other peoples of Europe among whom she has been doing reconstruction work.

Serbian Appreciation. "In some of the countries the people are inclined to take for granted what we are doing, and think that we do no more than what we ought to do. But the Serbians are different," Dr. Brown said. "They show their appreciation of everything we do."

Dr. Brown's lecture, which was well illustrated with attractive and clear cut slides, showed the great need of better education and better reconstruction in all lines—economic, social, and moral—in Serbia.

POLAND, SQUEEZED BY NATIONS, NEARS WAR DEBT COLLAPSE

BY MILTON BRONNER

News NEA Staff Correspondent

POLAND, Jan. 29.—What is going to happen to Poland?

Anxious and restless Poland is in a precarious position, politically and economically, as Europe settles and builds with new troubles.

Alarmists give warning that Poland must bolster her defenses to stand between western Europe and the peril of Bolshevism, especially now that the Ruhr incidents have revived talk of alliance between Russia and Germany against the allies.

Poland stands between, geographically—Russia to the east and Germany to the west. She stands between in an economic sense, too. Poland is not so badly off as Austria, but is worse off than Germany. Badly in debt, with her currency of little value in the world markets, she has potential enemies on both sides of her, and internally she has trouble with racial and religious minorities.

Meanwhile Poland is spending vast amounts on her army. The war department costs more than one-quarter of the entire estimated expenditures and just about one-third of the estimated receipts of the government.

Hope for the future is pinned to M. Wojciechowski, the new president, who was elected as successor to the late Marshal Narutowicz, the first constitutionally elected president of Poland recently shot and killed by an assassin.

Although the new president was elected by the same political combination that put Narutowicz in office—a circumstance which impelled the assassin to his deed—it is believed he stands a better chance of creating a solidarity of the Polish nation. This is because of his friendship for Marshal Pilsudski, head of the army and the nearest approach to a national idol that Poland boasts of.

It's no light job to which he has been elected. On form, Poland ought to be a rich and prosperous country. She has great grain lands, mineral wealth and other resources. But the boom of the war swept back and forth across her territory, she has been ravaged by Bolshevism without and within, and today has to fear not only Soviet Russia, but a Germany which is only biding her time to seek to recover Upper Silesia.

As a result, Poland maintains a large and expensive army and, depending largely upon French friendship, which made France a most favored nation, although Germany and England are far better customers in Polish markets.

WOMAN SAVED BY PET BULLDOG

Attacks Assailant Choking His Mistress

SAN ANTONIO, Texas, Jan. 29.—The local and courage of a bulldog, probably saved the life of Mrs. J. T. Broussard when she was brutally attacked by an assailant late at an early hour this morning.

Mrs. Broussard was awakened by the assailant clutching her throat. She struggled with the man, who kicked and beat her. A bulldog, which is a pet of the Broussard family, and which was in an adjoining room, made his way into his mistress' room and with a vicious growl, made a lunge for the man's throat. Missing his aim, the dog gnawed ferociously at the intruder's leg, causing him to release Mrs. Broussard. The assailant made his escape after considerable difficulty in releasing himself from the dog's grip.

Mrs. Broussard is in a hospital suffering from nervous shock as a result of the attack. Police are investigating. They have no clue nor motive for the attack.

SQUARE HOUSE

"Square" houses have a great deal to be said for them in the economical construction and saving arrangement of rooms.

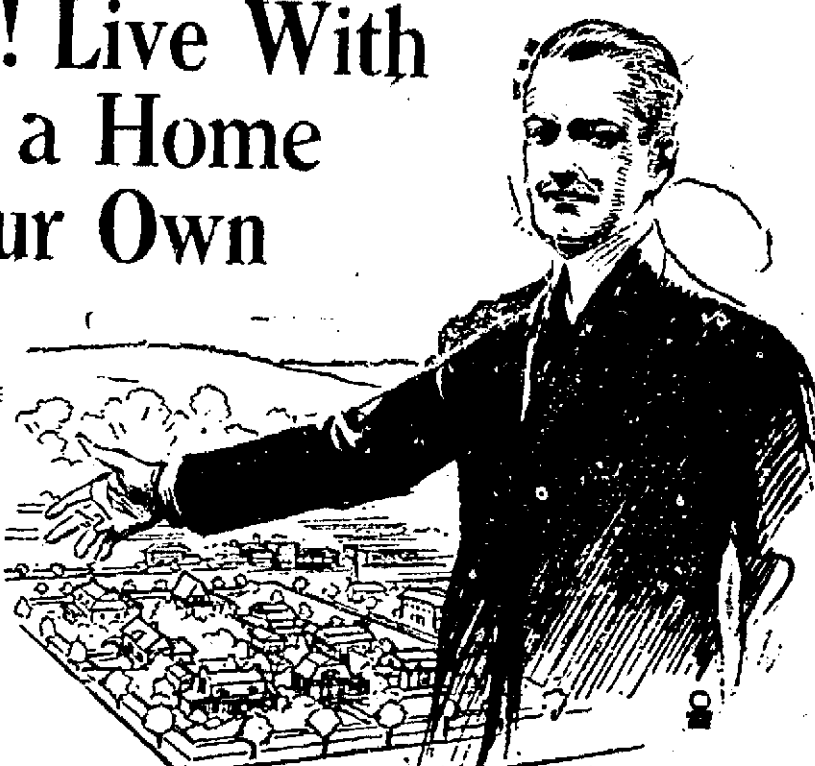

But too many of them, unfortunately, are the sort which one would call "cubic boxes." This need not be the case, for a square house may be exceedingly attractive. An amount of skill in designing how necessary, however, it is false only to plan the house yourself. Let your contractor to do so, many good, well-designed plans available at little or no cost.

This home pictured here is only 28 by 28 feet size, enough for generous living and yet it incorporates every feature of design and interior that any seven-room house could be. It is not extreme or faddish; its attractiveness is merely a matter of architecture than is usually in homes of this type.

The location of the living is the side rather than across the end, many advantages. The privacy created by the formal entrance is appropriate for a home. It is carried out by the vestibule through which one passes reaching the living room. The stair in the hall has a landing accessible from the kitchen. A feature of the front hall.

or clay, or other filling.
It wears and wears. Hangs smooth and straight. No cracks, no pin holes deface it!

Built-In Fixtures for the New Home

Interior styles in homes are undergoing a change. The plain, square room is giving way to new artistic innovations in the shape of built-in fixtures.
Nowadays you sit down to breakfast in a cozy little breakfast room, built into some comfortable nook or corner close to the kitchen. Your book-case is built into the partition or possibly near the fire place. Kitchen cases are built into the wall with conveniences which make for greater facility in preparing meals. China closets are built into the dining room in such a manner as to add greatly to the artistic appearance of the room and to save steps in setting the table.

These and many other features are found in great variation in modern homes. They are elaborated upon in proportion to personal wish for attractiveness inside the home. And the best of it is that old homes can enjoy these new innovations without tearing down and rebuilding.

Why Live Amid Plain Surroundings when a touch of the artistic will lift your home above the average?

We have unlimited facilities for designing, fitting and building in these or any other architectural fixtures that may be desired. We offer suggestions, submit sketches of changes to be made and do the work entirely to your order to fit each particular case.

If you desire to bring the old home up to date telephone us and we will call and give you an estimate of the changes you wish made.

These are but a few of the many built-in fixtures which we make to special order.

YOU AND I

A constitutional amendment, by which war could not be declared unless the people voted for it in a referendum, is urged by Congresswoman Winifred Mack. She wants our president to tell other world powers that we'll delegate to the plain people the right to declare war—provided the other countries do the same.

No chance of the others agreeing, while any of us are alive.

And yet the referendum on war will have to come before there can be really lasting peace. A preliminary step should be a law by which legislators voting for war would have to join the first field army.

BUGHOUSE

Now, as always, there's talk of revising the calendar. Many plans are suggested. The favorite is for a year of 13 months. A bill is before congress, providing for an international conference on calendar revision.

Can you imagine the confusion we'd have for at least 10 years if a new calendar were installed? Some folks still are writing "1922" instead of "1923". Our present calendar has become a habit, a brain rut that would be next to impossible to forget.

One reason our big problem remains unsolved is because we are forever wasting time snatching around petty things—like the calendar, which, while not altogether satisfactory, is the most perfect thing we have, next to mathematics.

HAIR

A 70-year-old woman with hair so long that it touches the ground—Mrs. Mary Rogers of Boston. She attributes her glorious hair to much shampooing, moderate brushing and never using a curling iron. The real reason, of course, is heredity or that Mrs. Rogers is blessed with an exceptionally faithful thyroid gland, which regulates hair growth and texture. Other women might follow her way of dressing the hair—and be nearly bald at 50.

HOLDING

It may make you scowl to learn that merchandise exports from our country last year slumped to less than $322 million dollars, compared with $228 million in the record year, 1920.

However, exports in 1922 totalled only $284 millions. So 1922, compared with 1921, showed an increase of 51 per cent. That just about makes the average increase of wholesale prices since before the war. It again calls attention to the fact that fluctuations in our foreign trade have been chiefly due to price movements. It's a money hoax.

TREES

Five trees are being cut down for every one grown in New York state. This warning comes from Alexander MacDonald, who devotes his time working for conservation of forests. In 1850 New York ranked first in lumber production. Now it is twenty-third in line. Western lumber states will have much the same story to report, not many years from now, unless more trees are planted.

A treeless America is quite as passible as the extinction of the buffalo and passenger pigeon. Kill off the bulk of the forests and insects soon will destroy the few trees left for ornament and shade.

ARTISTS

France bestows on an American artist, George Elmer Brown, its highest possible honor for a living painter. It buys another of his paintings for the Museum of Luxembourg in Paris.

This should interest the irritable critics who keep lamenting that America is producing no real art.

HOSTESS often wonder how to entertain "differently" for a bride of mid-winter. A novel party of unusually delightful nature, which is entirely different from the usual round of entertainment, will be published in the Woman's Home Companion. The entertainment was given as follows:

"The first thing the guests noticed when they entered the big living room with its open fire was how good everything smelled. The fragrant balsam odor of the pine was everywhere. There were branches tucked behind pictures and bunched on mantels and bookshelves. On low stands and in corners, where set judiciously, were tiny little conventional trees, like the ones the florist gets such a big price for. Only these were "made" trees, consisting of small branches of pine wired together and then pruned up into the approved peaked style with a pair of scissors.

As this was a travel party, where all the guests accompanied the bride on her wedding journey, five tables represented cities she would pass through. On each table a tiny pine tree, planted in a tiny pot, bore a placard announcing the name of the city—New York, Buffalo, or whatever it happened to be. The score cards were tied to wee suit cases packed with bonbons, and the guests were paired off, two couples to a table. On the tables were heart-shaped decks of cards, each card inscribed with a letter. There were enough letters in each deck to spell the name of a city four times, with some extra letters thrown in for good measure. To play the game the cards were spread face downward on the table. Each player drew a card in turn. The couple who first succeeded in spelling the name of the city the table represented, progressed.

"When the bride progressed to the table that represented her home city, she was given a handful of baggage checks and told to open a certain door. This revealed the improvised baggage office, presided over by a dandy in a very official looking cap. The presentation of the checks brought forth an amazing quantity of baggage. A number of attics had contributed to the supply. There was an old-fashioned portmanteau, a wee little trunk studded with brass nails, somebody's grandmother's square little bonnet trunk, and bags and boxes galore. All the luggage was decorated with lemons and be-ribboned old shoes and was looking like the most weddingly fashion.

A row of enormous white cardboard keys was given to the bride, with which she solemnly went through the performance of unlatching the trunks and bags. These contained the shower gifts, dainty trousseau garments and embroidered linens. The guests crowded around to help with the unlatching and with the reading of the "wishing" poems, that accompanied the gifts. These delightful tasks were state accomplished before a big dinner bell was rung in the hall, and the maid announced:

"This way to the lunch counter. Quick meals served. Just 15 minutes between trains, ladies. Step lively, please."

"This brought a laughing rush for the dining room, where long tables had been arranged along one side in lunch-counter style. Big red heart posters displayed the menu and assured one of quick service. Upon the counters were plates piled high with heart-shaped sandwiches, and honey cakes and slipper-cakes frosted in white. Mugs of hot chocolate topped with a fluff of whipped cream were served at the counter with neatness and dispatch.

REHEARSAL FOR "THE SHINING PATH", the playlet, which will be presented at the First Christian church next Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock under the auspices of the Christian Endeavorers, will be held Tuesday evening at the church at 6:45 o'clock.

The Endeavorers are anticipating a delightful surprise at 6:30 o'clock, immediately preceding the playlet. Mrs. L. T. Martin announced at last evening's session of the C. E. Society, that she was preparing the surprise for the Endeavorers. Immediately after Mrs. Martin made her announcement, she had also arranged a surprise for the same occasion. With these two surprises in store the Endeavorers are arranging to attend next Sunday evening's session at 8:30 o'clock in full force.

"The Shining Path" is a missionary playlet of much interest, and promises to be entertaining as well as instructive. The scenes will be most effective, showing India in the bonds of disease, poverty, illiteracy, womanhood, childhood, and Hinduism; and how she effects her escape from these bonds through the forces of Christianity.

The cast of characters include Miss Mary McBride as India; Robert French as the Christian doctor; W. L. Clinton as the Christian industrialist; Miss Clara Repschlaeger as the Christian teacher; Mrs. E. E. Clinton as the Christian worker among India's women; Mrs. I. E. Martin as the Christian child specialist; and S. E. Doney as the Christian evangelist.

The public is cordially invited to attend the playlet; and all young people in the city interested in Christian Endeavor are invited to the two surprises being arranged by Mrs. Martin and Mr. Nowlin.

the Civitan Club, but the list of patrons and patronesses includes practically all of Port Arthur's prominent club women and their husbands.

Members of the musical and civic clubs of Port Arthur are especially interested in the appearance of this celebrated trio. Announcement was made last week of the Tollefson's appearance in Port Arthur, and as soon as society was made aware of this, that evening was instantly dedicated to attendance at the concert.

Advance ticket sales indicate one of the largest audiences of the season, one of the Civitan Club officials announced this morning.

The committee in charge of the entertainment urgently requests an early attendance of all desiring to hear this famous trio of artists, and stated that no one would be seated during the rendition of any number.

MISS MABEL WAHL, DELIGHTFULLY entertained a few friends at her home, 904 Fifth street, Saturday evening.

A candy pull furnished diversion during the early part of the evening, following which the guests enjoyed several dance numbers. Victrola music furnished inspiration for dancing. Delicious refreshments were served during the evening.

Those enjoying this occasion were Messes E. Belle Bledsoe, Vera Wahl, Ruby Atkinson, Mary Hunter, Ma Mae Sweeney, and Mabel Wahl; Messes, Sam Butler, Ernest Butler, Clayton McGire, Baker Barnes, Victor Sherrill, Derrell Jewett, and Howard Crow; Mrs. F. D. Daniel and Mrs. C. C. Wahl.

MRS. J. H. TINDLE LEFT SATURDAY for her home in Glenmore, La., after a visit with her sister, Mrs. R. N. Carter of 721 Mobile avenue. Mrs. Carter has been seriously ill but is now reported to be rapidly recovering.

OF INTEREST TO A NUMBER of Port Arthur friends was the wedding of Miss Gladie Whittington and Mr. M. G. Osterhout, both young people of this city, which took place last week in Beaumont at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Edwards, 1787 Magnolia avenue.

The impressive service, which was witnessed by only members of the family and intimate friends, was read by Rev. Walter E. Rodgers of the Magnolia Avenue Baptist church. The ceremony was performed in the living room, where lovely pink roses gave floral adornment.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. O. Whittington of this city, was attractively attired in a wondrous spring traveling suit of gray, with hat and accessories in harmony. She carried an arm bouquet of beautiful Columbia roses.

The groom is an employee of the Texas Company and is well known here.

Mrs. and Mrs. Osterhout left immediately after the ceremony for a short honeymoon trip to New Orleans, La., and upon their return will be at home to their friends at 2101 Thirtieth street.

MR. AND MRS. B. D. NEWMAN left today for Houston where they will make their home.

MRS. V. H. BANKS AND daughter, Frances, left today for Houston where they will make their home.

THE PICNIC, WHICH WAS TO have been given Saturday at Port Neches Park by the Junior Guild of St. George's Episcopal church, has been postponed until next Saturday. The young people will meet at the home of Mrs. Frank Potts, 2335 Sixth street, at 9 o'clock Saturday morning, and from that point will motor to the park for a delightful outing.

THE JANE DELANO AUXILIARY of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet at the home of Mrs. M. T. Folse, 847 Eleventh street, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Legislative Side Lights

BY HUGH NUGENT FITZGERALD

News Staff Correspondent at the 38th Legislature

AUSTIN, Texas, Jan. 29.—Representative K. Loftin hails from Clay county which is the 10th representative district. Representative W. H. McFarlane hails from Young county which is the 10th representative district. These lawmakers are responsible for the 92nd judicial district, comprising the counties of Clay, Young and Archer. All three have been tacked on to one of the Wichita county judicial districts, and the two districts say that four terms of court were demanded each year in the three counties which comprised the 92nd.

This was a senate bill and, when the house passed it on final reading, Speaker Seagler affixed his signature to the measure. Now it goes to the governor. If he permits the measure to become a law, it is said that District Attorney W. L. Schneck of Young county will be recommended for the judgeship. District Attorney Schneck has been legislated out of office by the Loftin-McFarlane bill and his backers say that he is entitled to a judicial honor.

According to reports received here the bar of Henrietta protested against the creation of the new judicial district, but Representatives Loftin and McFarlane have received many letters and telegrams from their constituents endorsing their bill and urging its passage. They put it over and now District Judge H. R. Wilson of Wichita county has been legislated out of office. Representative Loftin is a most energetic and enthusiastic opponent of the Looney bill which provides for the reading of the Bible in the public schools.

Representative Harris of Hill county is another representative who will fight it to a finish. These gentlemen say that the state should hands-off the church and the church should hands-off the state.

In a neat passage of words between Representative Harris and Representative Rountree in committee room, the representative from Hill county reminded the gentleman from Brazos that Thomas Jefferson was not only the author of the constitution but also the author of the Virginia statute providing for civil and religious liberty and the first gross champion of public education for the masses.

It is the consensus of opinion here that the bomb thrown by Dr. Samuel Palmer Baylor, president of Baylor University, sounded the death knell of the Looney bill, and the president of Baylor is the most talked of man in political and religious circles today. He is a close personal and political friend of Governor Neff and a leading senator in speaking of Brook's recent letter made this comment: "Thomas Jefferson could not have said it better."

SENATOR JOHN DAVIS AND WOMEN ADMIRERS

It is a matter of history that the women of Dallas county made former Representative Phil Barry Miller change front on the primary election bill. He said that he would vote for the measure if the women of Dallas county showed him that they were in favor of it. They hurled a petition at his head, and the petition contained the names of over eight thousand of the leading women of his county. Miller changed.

It was just the other day that Senator John Davis of Dallas and Senator H. L. Darwin introduced their famous resolution condemning the Clayton McGire case, and the state for public improvements, education and other governmental matters. This resolution was passed by the senate by a vote of 23 to 3, several senators not voting, and then sent over to the house where it precipitated a red-hot debate for supremacy.

Now it appears that the women of Dallas county disapprove of the Davis-Darwin resolution and are de-luging Senator Davis with letters and wires of protest. They demand that the 38th legislature shall bow to the federal government and enact a necessary legislation which will permit the state to receive the financial aid guaranteed by the Shepherd-Towner maternity law.

Senator Davis smilingly admits that he is being bombarded, but the charge of the light brigade in the Crimean war isn't a comparison, and he would admit if pressed very hard, that the women want the money and are willing to let state rights and the constitution go hang.

All this makes Medadones Flore and McCallum and their sisters smile. They are on the trail of Big John here and at home. Are they going to make him jump as they made Barry Miller jump?

STATE AID FOR TERMINAL WAREHOUSES

Representative Sam Bryant of Hall county and his fellow farm laborers believe that the state should go into the business of building terminal warehouses in the big port towns. Bryant would amend the constitution along these lines. He introduced a joint resolution to push the cause along.

Representative Price of Tins and other sections of the Sulphur bottoms made the joint resolution appear to his own liking when it came up for consideration in the house. Should the amendment be submitted, it will be up to the people to adopt or reject it. If they adopt it, then the legislature will be permitted to authorize counties and cities to issue bonds to locate terminal warehouses anywhere and everywhere instead of exclusively at the big shipping ports.

As the people are said to be the masters, they may be given an opportunity if the senate is willing to declare by their ballots just what they want done when it comes to the location and the building of these warehouses.

Representative Bryant is an advocate of a graduated land tax. His proposed amendment to the constitution along these lines was snuffed out by a committee, but the gentleman from Hall did not expect a favorable report. He is pushing the campaign of education and those who sympathize with him are hoping that the graduated land tax proposal will be an issue of the campaign two years hence.

Representative Strodt of Navarro county and his 11th legislative points are not envious. The gentleman from Navarro threw out his evolution bill as a feeder and there is going to be a rare debate when the monkey ball starts the lawmakers in the fair.

ANDY McDONALD was a buck-toothed and well-satisfied high school senior. But one evening when there was a full moon and the spring breeze was soft and languorous, and the very leaves whispered of love, he took a very pretty girl for a walk down a country lane.

"And before he realized it he had proposed and been accepted."

Then he was silent as he suddenly came to a full realization of his precipitancy. But the girl seemed to expect something more.

"Sandy," said she, "have ye nothing more to say to me?"

"No," replied Sandy, "I'm thinkin' I have said more than enough already."

The One-Man Woman
"I WAS THE WOMAN"

By Ruth Agnes Seeling

BEGIN HERE TODAY

KATE WARD, widow of DAN WARD, living with her father, JUSTIN PARSONS, has a visitor, CHINATOWN ALICE, who says Dan was father of her child.

DOROTHY, Kate is much perturbed. A few evenings later she and her father find the unconscious victim of an auto crash near their home and carry him in. Recovering, he says he is JAMES LATHAM. He winks Kate. She, fond of him, yet devoted to Dan's memory, does not know what to do. Then it develops that Latham was acquainted with Dan and believes he knows of a trunk in a fishing shack, the latter owned which may contain papers throwing light on his past. They visit the shack, find the trunk and Latham is about to open it, when Kate, glancing from the window, stops him.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

At length she turned from the window and smiled.

"I've the courage now, Jimmy," she said. "Open it."

Once more Latham lifted the cover of the trunk. As he touched the contents, Kate knelt beside him.

"Let me do it," she said.

And, as she lifted every piece, she lifted them out tenderly and laid them on the floor beside her. Garment after garment she removed. Not until she came to the last shabby, stained coat did she speak.

"It looks as if our quest had failed," she said. "There is nothing here, no letter of any kind. I have been fooled this time."

As she replaced the clothing, Kate searched every pocket but found nothing inside a few cigar papers, an old pipe and some matches.

"Close it, Jimmy, and let's take it back with us," she had replied the last article. Her voice was toneless.

Latham dragged the trunk from the cabin and lifted it to the back of his car. He closed the deserted house once more and started with Kate toward the home of her father.

"Strange," Latham was muttering half to himself. Kate caught the word. "The prophecy has failed," said Kate. There was no attempt at levity.

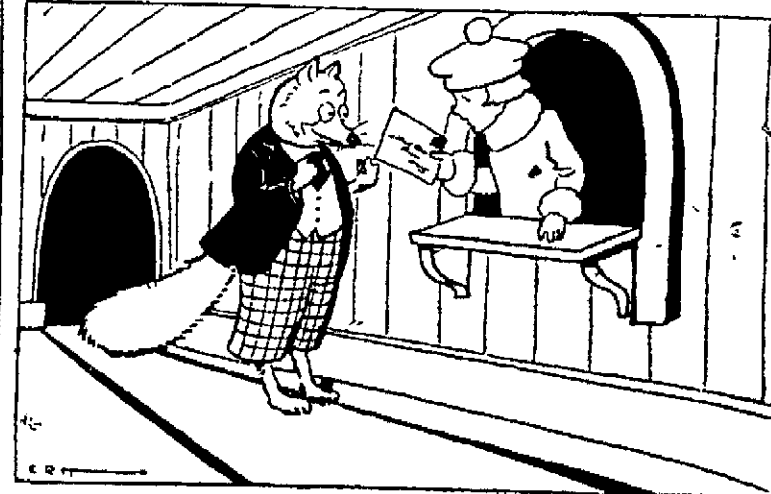

"I know I saw him put a packet of letters in the very trunk which we have in this car," Latham went on, ignoring Kate's remark.

"But," he continued, after a silence, "why not forget all of this? Forget Alice and Dorothy, forget everything that is past and begin over again—with me?"

"Oh, I know I made a promise!"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS
MR. FOX'S VALENTINE

By Olive Roberts Burton

"Well, I declare," he grinned. "If there isn't a letter for me!"

One day Mr. Stamps, the fairy postman, said to the Twins, "What did I tell you?"

And he held up a letter with a big red heart on it instead of a postage stamp.

"A valentine," exclaimed Nancy, dancing around. "Oh, goodly! I wonder who it's from!"

"I just saw Cutie Cottontail skedaddling around that bush over yonder, so I wouldn't be surprised if he dropped it in the box when I wasn't looking," said Mr. Stamps.

"Who's it to?" asked Nick.

"Why, it's addressed to Fleet Fox!" said Nancy, looking at the envelope through her magical glasses.

"Then I'll bet you it hasn't gone in it," declared Mr. Stamps positively. "I'll bet you it's a comical valentine. And won't Fleet be mad though! If he finds out who sent it, Mr. Cutie Q. Cottontail had better watch out."

Nick put the letter, or the valentine I should say, into the box with Mr. Fox's name on it and then they all went on with their work. There was a great deal to do in the hickory tree these busy days and they had no time to waste on gossip.

"Bye 'n' bye Fleet Fox came along—stopped. "Well, I declare," he grunted, "if there isn't a letter for me! Will you please hand it out, Miss Nancy?"

Suddenly he cried out, "Oh, oh, oh! Just wait till I catch that fellow! Just you wait!" And he threw down his valentine and rushed away in a rage.

"Let's read it," said Nick, picking up the paper. "Oh, no wonder he got mad! Just listen!" This was the valentine:

"I love your voice—when I don't hear it.

I love your smile—when I'm not near it.

I love your way—when I'm not in it. Now guess who wrote this—think a minute."

"Cutie had better" hulk himself well!" laughed the little fairy postman.

DIES, BURIED, SAME DAY

PORT WORTH, Texas, Jan. 29.—Sometimes the swirling waters of life lay two stick along side of each other and take them together to the sea, cast them on the reefs and into the deep waters together—but it's seldom.

However, that's the story of the lives of G. W. Young and George D. Johnson. Both came to Port Worth from Iowa. Both were later chancellors of the Knights of Pythias. Both were deacons in the Broadway Presbyterian church.

Both died the same day, and were buried at almost the same hours.
